HOLLENBACK'S ELECTION TO BOARD MEANS HE WILL BE HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

Penn Will Have New and Efficient Gridiron System Under His Regime—"Bill" One of the Best Tutors in the Land

THE election of Bill Hollenback to the Graduate Board of Directors of the Athletic Association at Penn presages a big shake-up in football affairs this fall.

Hollenback's victory, which was announced exclusively in the EVENING LEDGER last night, virtually means that he will be head coach of the University of Pennsylvania football team next fall.

As a Fighter, Welsh Is Good Dancer

Freddy Welsh proved that he was the world's champion lightweight dancer at the Olympia last night, but while he was doing it, he was badly beaten by Jimmy Murphy, who only boxes for a living.

Murphy Won by a Wide Margin

The truth of the matter is that Welsh is not in the game to give the public a run for his money. He runs after the public's money. The champion is after a strong, healthy bankroll, and his only object is to stay in the ring long enough to get it.

Colleges May Investigate Summer Ball at Lake Placid

The collegians who played with Coughlin's Lake Placid team in the White Mountains last season are very much worried, because it is rumored that Yale, Harvard and Princeton at the recent eligibility meeting, decided to investigate the summer ball conditions at that place.

The Open Season for Rumor Insect

This is the open season for rumors and kindred insects. No sooner had the baseball moguls arrived in New York for the annual meeting of the National League than these modern male Pandoras loosed the lid of the little rumor box and let 'em fly.

Colonel Rupert again sent his regular biweekly shell hurtling into the ranks of baseball by announcing that he wanted to get J. Franklin Baker, New York newspaper man looked started out of habit.

Andy Smith's Strategy Won Big Game for Purdue

At the banquet of the Purdue University football team, Pultz, the stocky little halfback, told the guests that the Purple owed its victory over Indiana in the big game of last year to a brilliant piece of strategy pulled by Andy Smith, who was one of Penn's much-interfered-with coaches a few years ago.

Smith instructed Pultz to sacrifice distance in punting for accuracy, and every time he kicked during the game he aimed for a puddle. The result was that Indiana could not run the ball back, and many fumbles resulted, which prevented Childs' heavy team from scoring.

O'Donnell Agrees With Sharpe That Schoolboys Have too Many Plays

Cleo O'Donnell, the premier scholastic coach of the East, agrees with Dr. Al Sharpe, of Cornell, and "Speedy" Rush, of Princeton, men who have had wonderful success with school teams, that the average scholastic coach tries to teach the boys too many plays and formations, with the result that powerful eleven have gone to pieces at a critical stage.

Western Conference Regrets Its Action on Summer Ball

The members of the Western Conference regret their action in voting to abolish baseball as a major sport. The excitement caused by the wholesale disqualification of football stars for violating the summer ball rule caused the conference to act too hastily, and they now realize it.

Williams, a Minor Leaguer, Was Iron Man of 1915

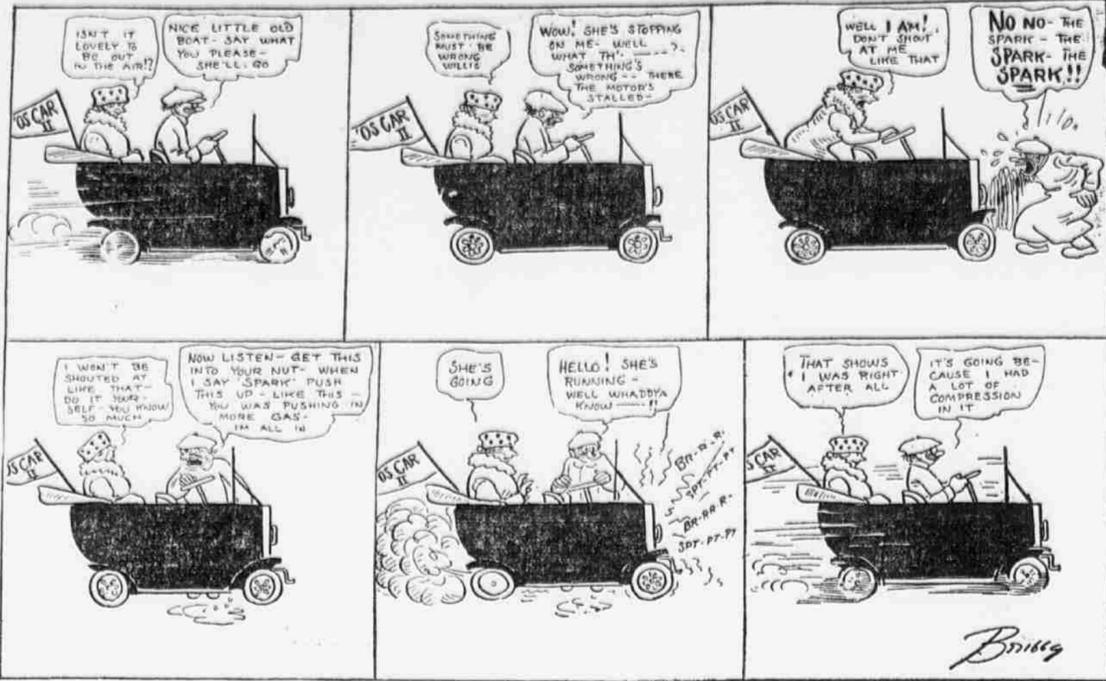

The greatest "iron man" record compiled in baseball in years was made by a minor leaguer during the 1915 season. This record goes to Johnny Williams, of Minneapolis, of the American Association, who pitched 441 innings, including 32 full games and parts of 32 others.

Baseball lost one of the most promising young players in the country when Catcher "Peggy" Barth, star of the Imperial Valley Winter League, died at Vernon, Cal., after a brief illness.

Penn's basketball team made an excellent impression in its first game of the season and had little trouble defeating Ursinus. The Collegeville five was far below the usual standard, but that should not detract from the impressive showing of the Red and Blue.

Reports from the West state that Davey Baneroff, of the Phillies, returned to his home in Sioux City suffering from a nervous breakdown and has not fully regained his health.

BRITON HAS GONE BACK

Philadelphia has a worthy contender for championship prize in Jimmy Murphy who in one year has risen from a preliminary novice into the recognized leading lightweight in this city.

Welsh's exhibition proved that he has lost his famous left jab, the punch which won for him the lightweight laurels following Murphy's victory over Fred Welsh, the titleholder, at the Olympia last night.

after a heart-breaking race against Taber, of Brooklyn, stands all by himself. He equaled the world's record for the long, 21 1-5 seconds, and was most consistent in all his starts.

Oliver Millard, of San Francisco, was only beaten a foot by Kolehmainen in the five-mile coast championship races. The time was 25:13 2-5. In the country today who can take the measure of the Finn it is Millard, who has both endurance and necessary nerve.

Howard P. Drew, formerly of Springfield, Mass., now a brakeman on a San Francisco railroad, failed in the national championships, but had run such remarkable races in the hundred before that he easily was the pick of the field.

Al Mansfield claimed to be fouled at Pottstown. The much-discussed 15-round wind-up between Jimmie Toland, Pottstown, and Al Mansfield, England, proved to be a fiasco. Up to the seventh round it was a beautiful exhibition of boxing.

NEW PENN BOARD NAMES FOOTBALL MENTORS TODAY

Hollenback Will Continue Fight at First Meeting of Board of Directors

SINKLER A CANDIDATE

With Bill Hollenback a victorious candidate for the Board of Directors of the University of Pennsylvania Athletic Association, the new regime which the graduates will continue its fight at the first meeting of the new board called for 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

There is much interest in the composition of the committee in spite of the preference for election to the board. Who will be the choice of the Hollenback men is a mystery, but it is believed they will vote for Jack Mindes, who was elected on the Hollenback ticket.

Hollenback polled the biggest graduate vote in the history of the Association, his total being 668. The other graduates elected with him were Jack Mindes, who had 525; Louis C. Madeira, 34, 518, and James W. Bodley, 456.

Gordon Hardwick, president of the senior class, led the field for undergraduate director, with 729 votes. Ted Meredith, captain of the track team, followed with 720 votes.

Other successful undergraduate candidates were Nat Mathews, captain of the football team, with 659; ex-captain Harris, with 629; W. Hopkins, of the football team; Capron Townsend, manager of the track team; John E. Thayer, manager of the crew, and Robert Dechert, manager of the baseball team.

The other standing committees to be selected are track, baseball and rowing. There is much interest in the composition of the track team because it will elect a successor to George W. Orton, the track coach, who retires next June.

In addition to the naming of the standing committees, much interest is being taken in the election of officers. It was reported last night that the composition of the board will propose a new candidate for the presidency in place of H. L. Gesella, who has held this position for more than 20 years.

A more fitting climax to the championship could not have been arranged than that which faces the followers of the Intercollegiate Soccer League at Haverford next Saturday afternoon. On that date the final game of the league will be played and Pennsylvania will oppose the State Lancers.
